Discussion

There is a strict censorship on Weibo.

If the topic is religious it will be blocked by the government.

Why people can't discuss religion in China?

These days everything can be sensitive.

I have plants, I don't think people should eat plants.

This would make many vegans and vegetarians angry.

I have video games.

I love video games.

What makes a topic sensitive?

The government decides.

How does it decide?

There isn't journalistic freedom in China.

There are platforms like WeChat, QQ, A Little Red Book, Bilibili and TikTok.

It seems to me that these days people are more interested in watching videos than in reading.
